

The Boston Globe

MONDAY, JULY 16, 2007

BEACHY KEEN

Waves: Partly sunny and steady, high 87
Temperature: Partly sunny with a chance of rain, high 80
Heat Flow: 12:50 a.m. 7:30 p.m.
Sunrise: 5:21 Sunrise: 7:53
First Sunrise: 7:53

Also today Discoveries

Moses had nothing on MIT scientists, who have come up with a way to part walls of water in an experimental building. They can even display writing on the water. C3

ILLUSTRATION BY CARLORATTIASSOCIATION -WALTER NICOLINO, CARLO RATTI, CLAUDIO BONICCO, MATTEO LAI

Discoveries

CARLORATTIASSOCIATI—WALTER NICOLINO, CARLO RATTI, CLAUDIO BONICCO AND MATTEO LAI

WATER WORLD — MIT's Digital Water Pavilion, an interactive structure made of digitally controlled water curtains, will be built for the 2008 World Expo in Zaragoza, Spain. The walls can sense someone coming and part to form a doorway. For more information, go to www.digitalwaterpavilion.com.